Designers Tony Ingrao and Randy Kemper punch up adman Donny Deutsch's museum-white Manhattan mansion

TEXT BY LESLIE BENNETTS PHOTOGRAPHY BY NIKOLAS KOENIG PRODUCED BY HOWARD CHRISTIAN

Clockwise from top: A vintage FontanaArte light fixture is suspended above a Corian tub by Boffi in the master bath. Pink is the theme of a daughter's bedroom, which is dressed in Osborne & Little and Designers Guild fabrics; the chair is from Profiles, and the carpeting is by Stark. The gym and roof deck; the outdoor lounge is by Gloster. Deutsch's gallery-style dressing room, punctuated by a custom-made bench covered in an Edelman pony hair. The girls' playroom has a Ron Arad for Moroso sofa and chairs, cupcake seats by Jellio, and a smiling Takashi

Murakami cloud; the painting in the niche is by David Deutsch, Donny's father, and the cowhide rug is from Patterson, Flynn & Martin. Opposite: In the master bedroom, a wall-size headboard upholstered in a Giant fabric displays a Marilyn Minter photograph; the bedding is by E. Braun. Red leather Émile-Jacques Ruhlmann chairs from the '20s flank Warhol interpretations of Judy Garland's Blackglama ads; the stylized-zebra-print area rug was custom made.
